This 2022 report of the Duval County Domestic Violence Fatality Review Team (hereafter simply referred to as DVFRT as a named entity) examines and analyzes domestic violence homicides which occurred in Duval County (the consolidated City of Jacksonville), Florida from January 1 through December 31, 2022. This report marks the 26th year that DVFRT has reviewed all the domestic homicides occurring within Duval County.

In general, the purpose of fatality reviews of any kind is to identify patterns and trends in deaths which might have been prevented. One expert notes that “like the reviews conducted after an airplane crash, a fatality review helps determine what went wrong and what could have been done differently to prevent the tragedy” (Websdale, 2003, p. 271). Domestic violence fatality reviews seek to identify patterns and trends in homicides among intimate partners and/or family members which arise from domestic violence, that might be prevented in the future through revised responses from criminal justice or other service providers in the local community. It is important to note that the approach used in fatality reviews is not to seek to attach blame for the death(s) to anyone other than the offender/suspect in the case but, instead, to identify agency practices or policies which might be improved.

For this reason, a diversity of membership on the review team is valuable for ensuring that major local organizations involved in providing responses/services to victims of domestic violence or their families are also involved in assessing where improvements might be needed. The DVFRT is composed of a variety of representatives of key local agencies and independent experts in the field, each of whom comes to the review process with the intent to examine how fatalities might be prevented in the future.

The summary findings and recommendations, which arise from this examination, are intended to give local authorities guidelines for change. As one well-known expert in this area has observed, “...a fatality review identifies relevant social, economic, and policy realities that compromise the safety of battered women and their children” (Websdale, 2003, p.27). Such reviews may also examine deaths of third parties (e.g., other family members, friends, coworkers, neighbors) which happen to arise from violent domestic interactions, even when the primary parties are not killed.

There are many uses for these annual fatality reviews, the most important of which is to inform the public about how the criminal justice system responds to incidents of domestic violence reported to police. By identifying areas of response which might be altered or improved, this review offers the possibility of preventing future deaths. These reviews are also instrumental in identifying lethal domestic violence patterns and securing federal or other assistance for local initiatives.

A copy of this report is distributed widely and is also placed on the web for public access.

DVFRT hopes that the reader will find this report informative and useful. Any comments or questions about this report or the work of DVFRT may be directed to 2023 Chair Adair Newman at 904-255-2730 or via email at Adairn@coj.net.

DVFRT was created in 1997 by the Duval County Domestic Violence Intervention Project (DVIP). DVFRT exists for the purposes of annually collecting, reviewing, and analyzing all domestic homicide cases within Duval County (Jacksonville), Florida and issuing this report. DVFRT is composed of representatives of several governmental and non-profit agencies which deal directly with domestic violence cases within the jurisdiction of Duval County, plus other local experts in this field. A complete list of the members of DVFRT for the 2022 analysis may be found at the beginning of this report.

Cases selected for review by DVFRT are those in which the key parties of the case (i.e., the primary offender and the primary victim) meet the definition of having a “domestic” relationship as set forth in Section 741.28 of the Florida Statutes. This defines domestic relationships as:

Spouses, former spouses, persons related by blood or marriage, persons who are presently residing together, as if a family, or who have resided together in the past, as if a family, and persons who have a child in common regardless of whether they have been married or have resided together at any time.

All homicide cases which meet this definition, whether they involve intimate partners or other relationships in the definition above, are flagged by the State Attorney’s Office (SAO), Fourth Judicial Circuit, and are brought to the attention of DVFRT for review. In addition, the Homicide Division of the Jacksonville Sheriff’s Office (JSO) flags cases which would not have been referred to the SAO for prosecution, such as homicide-suicides. From time to time, DVFRT has wrestled with additional cases in which a dispute between domestic partners or family members has resulted in the death of a third party (but not a person who fits the Florida Statute definition above). The challenge is to identify third party cases, since they are not identified as “domestic” homicides by JSO, but it seems clear in such cases that a death would not have resulted except for a domestic altercation of some kind.

DVFRT also includes cases involving intimate partners that do not fit the domestic violence statute as written. For example, if a couple was dating but had not lived together nor had a child in common, DVFRT includes the case, to get a true picture of homicides among intimate partner couples.

It should be noted that DVFRT excludes child deaths resulting from domestic violence, unless the child was killed as part of an attack on an adult that fits the Florida Statute definition, as there is a separate local child death committee that reviews those fatalities.

In terms of procedure, DVFRT meets approximately twice monthly, normally beginning in January of each year, to review each identified case of domestic homicide from the previous year. It is important to note that--unlike many other fatality review teams--this DVFRT reviews and reports on all domestic homicide cases which occur within a given year, regardless of the legal status of suspects at the time of the issuance of this report. Thus, this report accounts for all cases classified as domestic homicides in Duval County in 2022. For this reason, this report identifies cases by a number (e.g., 2022-01 2022-02, etc.), an incident date, demographic facts, zip code, and police zone location only. No names of suspects or victims are used, as some cases may still be pending legally. This approach provides a much more complete picture of domestic homicides in Duval County for any given year than is provided in those reports which include only closed cases. It also allows for more timely reviews and recommendations.

Case files are divided amongst DVFRT members for intensive review to develop the elements of each case as presented herein. The documentary materials reviewed in each case may include any of the following:

- » Police reports involving the victim and suspect
- » Department of Children and Families (DCF) referrals involving victim and/or suspect
- » Civil proceedings including Marchman and Baker Acts, Dissolutions of Marriage, Paternity actions, and Injunctions for Protection involving victim and/or suspect
- » Adult criminal records of victim and/or suspect
- » State's Attorney files involving victim and/or suspect
- » Batterers' Intervention Program (BIP) participation, including performance, completion, violations, and victim contact

- » Animal abuse or neglect complaints, if available
- » Other relevant known services provided to the victim and/or suspect
- » Autopsy reports and/or other Medical Examiner's information

The information, which is sought about each case from these materials, includes critical factors and sub-factors which are viewed as providing as complete a picture as possible about each of these tragic incidents. These factors and sub-factors are:

I. CRIME

Relationship of parties

Case summary

Children present at the scene

Location of the crime (by zip code and police zone)

II. CRIMINAL RECORDS AND REPORTS

Domestic violence

Non-domestic violent crimes

Drug or alcohol related offenses

III. CIVIL RECORDS AND REPORTS

Civil Injunctions

Dissolutions of Marriage

Paternity Actions

IV. SERVICES

Substance abuse program referral/attendance

Department of Children and Families Referrals

Baker Act and Marchman Act Commitments

V. OTHER CONCERNS/INFORMATION

Includes anything else pertinent to the cause of this incident that is not covered in the categories listed above.

Individual DVFRT members develop case profiles for each case using these factors. The case profiles are then shared with and analyzed by the whole Team for a collective review of each case. Questions may lead to further research on the case. The key factors permit the Team to try to understand the dynamics of what happened and to ask in each case whether there was anything that reasonably could have been done to prevent those events from unfolding. That is, were there warning signs which were ignored or not recognized by third parties who could have intervened or notified authorities? Were there opportunities for intervention which were missed? Were there services which could have been provided to either the victim or the offender which were not provided--or not adequately provided? DVFRT recognizes that ultimately offenders are responsible for their actions and the fatalities which ensue. However, DVFRT also recognizes that the dynamics underlying domestic violence are complex and that other parties often know about potential danger within domestic relationships, even if they do not report this to outside authorities who might intervene. The goal of DVFRT is to help victims find assistance and offenders find intervention before domestic violence becomes lethal.

In this report, the reader will find the profiles developed for each of the cases in 2022. DVFRT also uses data for 1997-2022 to assess the long-term patterns, as well as recurring problems and potential progress. It is from these long term and recurring patterns, as well as any unique event(s) of the year, that DVFRT develops its annual findings and recommendations, which are set forth in the Findings & Recommendations section.

It should be noted that the statistics provided herein may not always add up to 100% due to rounding of percentages.

This report focuses on a review of all domestic violence homicide cases involving adults which took place in Duval County, Florida, specifically for the year 2022. DVFRT reviewed the fourteen (14) cases which occurred in 2022. The cases involved nineteen (19) deaths. Seventeen (17) of the deaths were homicide victims and two (2) of the deaths were suicides by a suspect in a homicide-suicide. Three (3) of the 17 homicide victims were determined to be victims of justifiable homicide.

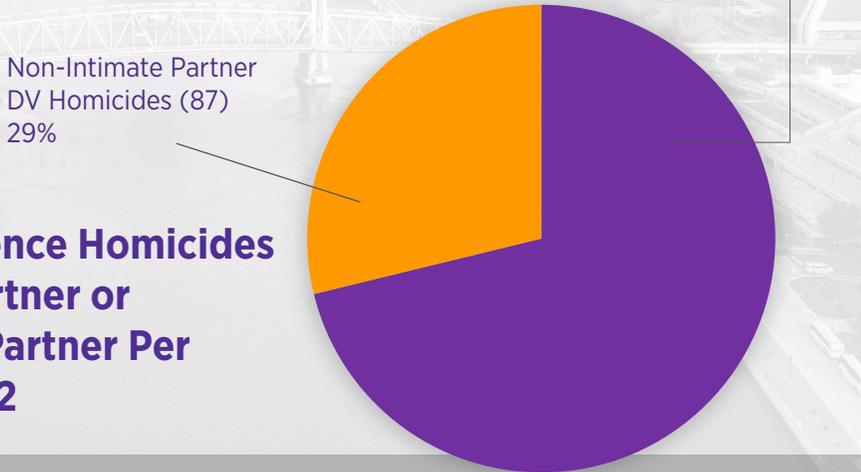

Within the category of domestic violence homicide, DVFRT distinguishes between intimate partner and non-intimate partner homicides (see Methodology). In 2022, seventy-nine (79%) percent of the local domestic homicide cases (n=11) involved intimate partners.

Since 1997, 71% (n=215) of domestic violence homicides in Jacksonville involved intimate partners.

Gender of All Domestic Violence Homicide Victims 2022

Gender of All Domestic Violence Homicide Victims 1997-2022

Race of All Domestic Violence Homicide Victims 2022

Cases of domestic violence between intimate partners need to be taken very seriously and need to be viewed as potentially lethal. Effective intervention can save the lives of victims of domestic violence and their family members.

Based on the patterns in this report, DVFRT made several findings and sets forth herein recommendations for local practice based on those findings:

RECOMMENDATION #1

Firearms continue to be the primary weapon used in domestic violence homicides. In 2022, 71% (n=10) of all domestic violence homicide cases involved a firearm. Firearms were the method of homicide in 82% (n=9) of intimate partner domestic violence homicide cases in 2022. Since 1997, firearms have accounted for 59% of domestic violence homicides in Duval County.

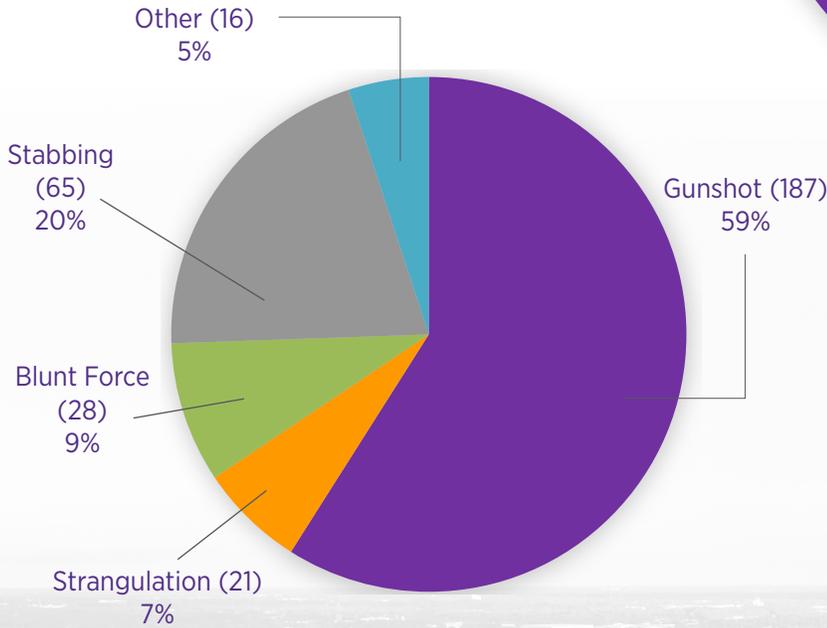

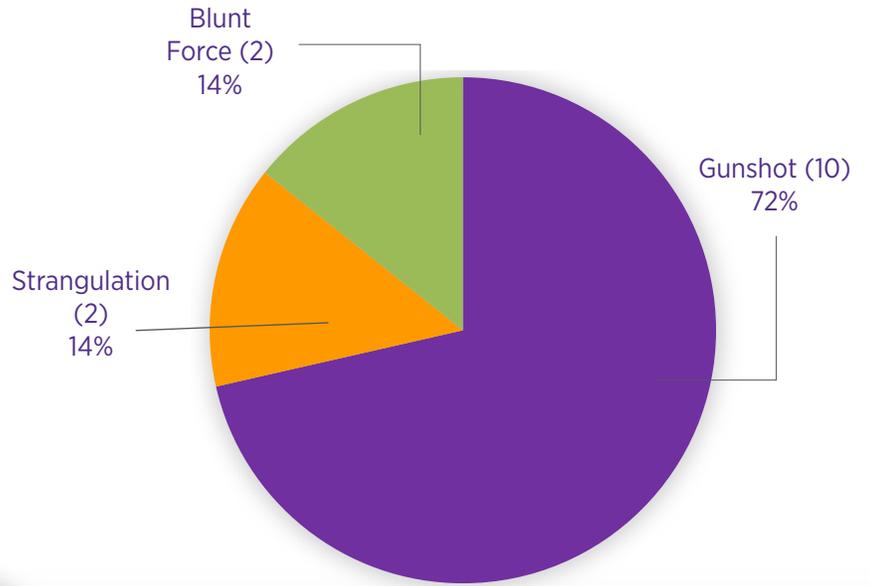

It is worth noting that, in 2022, two of the intimate partner domestic violence homicide cases were homicide-suicide cases, which involved a firearm.

Because of this continued trend, it is critical that law enforcement and related agencies ask victims about the suspect's access to a firearm when responding to cases of domestic violence. Law enforcement is also encouraged to assess the possibility of restricting a suspect's firearms access through Risk Protection Orders, in such cases.

In interactions with victims, advocates and social service providers should be clear on discussing the lethality risk associated with firearms and should actively safety plan with victims specifically relating to the presence of firearms.

Method of All Domestic Violence Homicides Per Case 2022

Method of All Domestic Violence Homicides By Case 1997-2022

RECOMMENDATION #2

Lethal intimate partner domestic violence continues to primarily be committed by male suspects on female victims. In 2022, 64% (n=7) of intimate partner domestic violence homicide cases involved a male suspect and female victim. Of the four intimate partner homicide cases with a female suspect and male victim, two of those cases were found to be justifiable homicides and one case is still pending further investigation.

From 1997-2022 in Duval County, 75% of intimate partner domestic violence homicides have been committed by a male suspect on female victim.

It should be noted that this data is based on the relationship of the primary suspect and primary victim. When there are multiple homicides in the same case, the gender dynamic between the suspect and the additional victims is not included in this metric.

While domestic violence can take place in any gender dynamic, the male abuser/female victim dynamic continues to be the one where the majority of lethal violence takes place. It is important for law enforcement, the courts, and social service providers to regard all female victims of domestic violence as potential homicide victims.

Intimate Partner Homicide Gender Dynamic Per Case 2022

Intimate Partner Homicide Gender Dynamic Per Case 1997-2022

RECOMMENDATION #3

In Duval County in 2022, 55% (n=6) of intimate partner domestic violence homicides involved relationships with a documented history of domestic violence between the suspect and victim. Two of these cases were justifiable homicides, where the suspect in the homicide had made previous domestic violence complaints against the homicide victim. The other four cases involved a history of domestic violence by the homicide suspect on the homicide victim.

In two additional intimate partner domestic violence homicide cases, the suspect had a history of domestic violence against a person other than the homicide victim.

Therefore, in total, in 73% (n=8) of the intimate partner domestic violence homicide cases in 2022, there were prior reports of domestic violence against the batterer.

Prior incidents of domestic violence must always be viewed as risk factors for lethality, not only when there is prior domestic violence within the relationship, but also by a batterer against a previous partner.

The courts, when allowed by law, are encouraged to always consider prior incidents of domestic violence by a suspect in proceedings dealing with injunctions for protection, child custody, and similar matters. Law enforcement and social service providers should clearly communicate the lethality risk relating to prior incidents of domestic violence, and should connect victims with domestic violence organizations (e.g. Hubbard House, Quigley House, Betty Griffin Center, Micah's Place) for safety planning.

RECOMMENDATION #4

Of the intimate partner domestic violence homicide cases in 2022, 82% (n=9) dealt with a dating relationship, where the suspect and victim were either actively dating or were estranged/had previously dated.

Dating violence should not be viewed as any less serious or less dangerous than violence within a marriage. Since Florida law only includes dating relationships under the definition of domestic violence if there is a shared child or current/previous co-habitation, supportive systems could be led to believe that abuse within a dating relationship is not as dangerous. However, the lethality risk in dating relationships needs to be assessed and addressed with victims, with the same urgency and seriousness as with other intimate partner relationships.

Extra care should be taken when the dating relationship also involves co-habitation, as co-habitation is an additional risk factor for lethal domestic violence. In eight (8) of the nine (9) dating relationship homicides in 2022 in Duval County, the suspect and victim were actively co-habiting or had previously co-habited (co-habitation as a risk factor is additionally discussed in Recommendation #5).

Relationship Type of Suspect and Primary Victim in Intimate Partner Homicide Cases 2022

Co-habitation Status in Intimate Partner Homicide Cases 2022

RECOMMENDATION #5

In 86% (n=12) of the domestic violence homicide cases in 2022, including 91% (n=10) of intimate partner domestic violence homicide cases, the suspect and victim were either actively living together or had previously lived together. In 55% (n=6) of the intimate partner domestic violence homicide cases, the suspect and victim were actively living together at the time of the homicide.

Given the correlation between co-habitation and lethal domestic violence, attorneys, advocates, and social service providers should advise victims on the ability to restrict an abuser's access to a shared home through an injunction for protection. Courts should give considerable weight to these requests, with the understanding that they could help reduce the lethality risk in these cases.

Advocates and social service providers should additionally advise victims of alternative housing solutions, which may include shelters for victims of domestic violence and their children (e.g. Hubbard House, Quigley House, Betty Griffin Center, Micah's Place). Local governments and developers are encouraged to consider domestic violence centers as beneficiaries and prospective partners in any affordable housing projects and opportunities, to support a victim's long-term independent housing needs.

B. CASE SUMMARY

On January 7, 2022, Suspect murdered Victim, his mother, and put her in a deep freezer in the garage. Suspect called 911 himself and reported he committed the murder. When law enforcement arrived, Suspect was loading what appeared to be bloody items into his vehicle. Suspect admitted to killing his mother to initial responding officers. Suspect's wife advised that Suspect called her and also admitted killing Victim. During a formal interview, Suspect stated that he killed Victim in a "fit of rage" due to years of verbal abuse since childhood. The incident was the culmination of disagreements over the estate of Suspect's deceased brother (Victim's son). Suspect stated he let himself into Victim's residence with a key - it should be noted Suspect stated he usually knocks before entering - and encountered Victim in the bedroom where she gave him a "mean look", so he lost it and began to hit Victim, strangled her, and smashed her head into the nightstand until Victim stopped moving.

B. CASE SUMMARY

On the evening of February 6, 2022, Victim and Suspect arrived in separate cars to a gas station and parked adjacent to one another. Suspect entered Victim's car through the passenger door. Moments later, Suspect exited the car, screaming for help, that his girlfriend had been shot. Suspect called 911 and reported that his girlfriend had been shot in the chest area.

When Jacksonville Sheriff's Office (JSO) officers arrived moments later, Victim was on the ground between the two parked cars, with a significant quantity of blood on her abdominal area. Witness was performing CPR while Suspect stood nearby screaming and crying. Jacksonville Fire Rescue Department (JFRD) arrived on scene, assessed Victim and pronounced her deceased.

Suspect reported Victim shot herself in the abdomen. On scene, JSO death investigators reviewed Victim's cell phone and found multiple videos from Suspect to Victim wherein Suspect was discharging a weapon from his vehicle. In the first video Suspect was seen discharging a black Glock 26 (the make and model are visibly marked on the gun) through the open sunroof from the driver's seat. In a second video, Suspect is seen discharging a similar black handgun through the passenger side window. In the third video, Suspect is seen holding a similar black handgun to his head. A Glock 26 handgun was recovered on scene from Victim's car, in the space between passenger seat and passenger door. Suspect was detained for questioning.

Suspect has a long history of domestic violence against another woman, the mother of his children; the earliest reports date to 2014, within days of the first child's birth. Her petition for an Injunction for Protection from Domestic Violence had been denied in 2021. Suspect was ordered to complete Batterer's Intervention Program with the sentence in the 2016 Battery case. It is unknown if he complied with that requirement.

Though Suspect had not been charged with drug offenses prior to the February 6th death, he did disclose to the court in the 2022 case that he has a long history of drug use and drug abuse in a letter to the court asking for leniency in sentencing. It should be noted that the 2022 case arises out of the same facts as the death investigation. As of this date, Suspect has not been charged with death of Victim.

Text messages on Victim's phone revealed multiple text messages from Suspect stating he was drinking and didn't have the strength to carry on. Suspect's sister, who learned of the death from social media, shared with law enforcement that she had been estranged from her brother for several years and Suspect made suicidal statements during their last conversation.

On October 22, 2022, Suspect called 911 to report Victim had attempted suicide in their home. Suspect reported finding Victim hanging by an extension cord from a door. Victim was unresponsive and was pronounced dead after being taken to the hospital.

Suspect told police he and Victim had argued most of the night. Suspect said Victim went upstairs alone. Suspect said he later checked on Victim and found her hanging and unresponsive. Suspect was the only adult present in the home at the time of Victim's death. Police observed broken glass in the living room, kitchen, and trash can of the apartment. Police also observed an extension cord hanging from a door with blonde hair in a tightly tied knot.

An autopsy determined injuries to Victim were consistent with manual strangulation, and the death was ruled a homicide. Police say Victim's injuries were not consistent with Suspect's statements, and the scene was staged to appear as a suicide.

Suspect and Victim were in an intimate dating relationship, although Suspect was previously married to another woman (Witness). Suspect and Victim were both enlisted in the U.S. Navy and stationed in Jacksonville. On October 27, 2022, Victim had a dental appointment where various witnesses observed Suspect and Victim speaking to each other in the parking lot for about an hour prior to her appointment. Following the appointment, Victim was sitting outside of the business crying. Witnesses heard a female voice (Victim) begin yelling and observed Suspect shoot Victim multiple times, and then shoot himself in the head. Witness (Suspect's ex-wife) was on scene and ran towards the crime scene after the gunshots.

Witness advised law enforcement that she and Suspect were separated, and she was living out of state. She said that she had only come to Jacksonville after Suspect called her approximately one week prior to the incident to report that Victim had called police on him for a domestic incident. Suspect was upset and believed that it may prevent him from receiving a promotion in the Navy.

On the day of the homicide, Suspect told Witness to take her car and meet him at Town Center for lunch, after he planned to go speak with Victim. Witness and Suspect had exchanged texts just prior to the homicide, in which Witness offered to "punch her in the head” (referring to Victim). Suspect’s last text message to Witness read “buddy I think ima do it.”

The Medical Examiner ruled Victim’s death a homicide by gunshot wounds. The Medical Examiner ruled Suspect’s death a suicide by gunshot wound.

October 21, 2022, Victim called Jacksonville Sheriff's Office (JSO) to report a misdemeanor domestic battery by Suspect at their then-shared home. Suspect was interviewed and acknowledged a verbal dispute but denied that anything physical had occurred. Suspect reported that his mother had been present in the home during the dispute.

Victim advised she would be moving out of the home and requested Patrol accompany her to remove her personal items.

JSO spoke with Suspect's mother, who did not see or hear anything. JSO suspended the case, "unable to confirm if a crime occurred, not enough to unfound."

Victim's brother advised Victim told him that Suspect had become physically and mentally abusive in the weeks prior to this incident.

Witness (Suspect's ex-wife) also reported single instance of prior domestic violence (unreported to police).
